

FEBRUARY
2009

1. ARMY ROUTINELY USED UNLICENSED PSYCHOLOGISTS UNTIL 2006
2. ARMY INVESTIGATOR ACCUSES KBR OF NEGLIGENT HOMICIDE
3. BRAINWASHING THE TROOPS WITH HATE AND LAWLESSNESS

1. ARMY ROUTINELY USED UNLICENSED PSYCHOLOGISTS UNTIL 2006

In 2005, an Army captain in Iraq asked for a mental health evaluation for one of his soldiers, a private first class from North Carolina who was known to put the muzzle of his weapon in his mouth. The case was assigned to a psychologist who was unlicensed — a common practice in the early years of the war, when the Army rushed mental health counselors to the combat zone even if some weren't certified or fully qualified. The definition of waste has taken on more forms than we care to talk about lately. But when it comes to young, patriotic, human life; we have a different word for it at CAMMMO.ORG

2. ARMY INVESTIGATOR ACCUSES KBR OF NEGLIGENT HOMICIDE

What's it going to take for the Pentagon to revoke KBR's multi-million dollar contract in Iraq? Will it be the company's failure to ensure clean drinking water for US soldiers? Nope. How about the fact that they gave ice containing traces of putrefied remains to US soldiers? Still no. Not even the rape of former KBR employee Jamie Leigh Jones led our government to suspend KBR's contract. Indeed, accountability for the largest US military contractor in Iraq always seems just outside of our grasp. Help us wrestle it in at CAMMMO.ORG

3. BRAINWASHING THE TROOPS WITH HATE AND LAWLESSNESS

At several times after the tragedy of 9/11, The United States government had the opportunity to lead by example, and use actions rather than words to make the argument that our democratic system was worth pushing on the world. Instead, we allowed complete disregard for Geneva Conventions and cowered to our own government spying on us. And we ended up turning the majority of our foreign supporters after 9/11 into attentive skeptics, if not lifelong devout enemies. A heavy shift back to the values that we were once proud to claim as American values is our only hope. See how bad it got at CAMMMO.ORG